Request for qualifications and general pricing information from human resources consulting and advisory firms

The Community Mental Health Fund (Levy) is a quasigovernmental organization involved in mental healthcare reimbursement for services to uninsured populations. It is governed by an appointed Board of Trustees and a full-time, professional staff of five. An executive director is responsible for day-to-day management and serves as the employer and supervise four staff.

The Levy may benefit from outside HR advice and expertise in three areas: performance management and review, indicators of performance and compensation, and redefining areas of responsibility in alignment with strategic goals. We seek consultation to assist with examining and retooling policies, procedures, reference material and other resources specific to these key areas.

Interested firms are invited to respond in writing by June 1, 2019 with following information:

- whether our needs for assistance align with your organization's capacity,
- your experience with other engagements of this general nature,
- a rate sheet or other general statement of the types of costs incurred by your clients , and
- the general length of time we can expect for an engagement of this type.

We are committed to offering equal opportunities in employment and contracting. Women and minority owned enterprises are encouraged to respond.
